The American Concrete Pavement Association (ACPA) presented an honorary lifetime membership award to Donald E. Beuerlein.

The award bestows full rights and privileges of ACPA membership to Beuerlein and places him in an elite category with fewer than 20 other individuals recognized for their life-long contributions and meritorious service to the concrete pavement industry and the ACPA.

The honorary lifetime membership recognizes Beuerlein for four decades of dedicated service to the concrete pavement industry, the ACPA, and its affiliated Chapter/State paving associations.

Beuerlein began his career with Koss Construction in 1966, and during his tenure, led employees, affectionately known as the “Hardroaders,” to build more than 72 million square yards of quality concrete pavements.

Beuerlein served as Chairman of the ACPA Board of Directors in 1997, as well as in a number of leadership positions during the years. As chairman, he is credited with leading the industry and Association to new heights, ushering in an era of enhanced business practices, dramatically improved market development and promotion programs, and implementation of new measurement and accountability practices.

Even after his retirement, Beuerlein has continued to play an important role, serving on task groups, committees, and on the ACPA Chairman’s Council. In addition, he was a driving force behind the development of the Missouri/Kansas and Oklahoma/Arkansas Chapters of ACPA.

His leadership in the transportation-construction industry also extends to other organizations, including The Associated General Contractors of America.

In presenting the award, Dan Keys, 2005 ACPA Chairman of the Board, commended Beuerlein for his role in shaping and guiding the future of the Association, as well as his personal integrity.

The ACPA Honorary Life Membership is reserved for those who have provided outstanding service to the concrete pavement industry and to the Association.

ACPA's members include paving contractors, cement companies, equipment manufacturers, material and service suppliers, ready-mixed concrete producers, allied associations/organizations, bonding and insurance companies, consulting firms, and other allied organizations and individuals.
